Course Description

Helping health professionals to improve their English language skills is one of our main objectives. We strongly believe that clear communication is one of the essential areas that can help practitioners to deliver better care, especially when it comes to patients' diagnostics and treatment.

With completion of our non-award Occupational English Test (OET) Preparation course, students can develop their confidence and fluency in communicating in English language in the healthcare workplace or educational setting. The Occupational English Test is recognised by many institutions and government agencies in Australia, the UK, New Zealand and Singapore. The course will prepare students for an OET B level (High level of performance, i.e. able to use English with fluency and accuracy adequate for professional needs). OET B is recognised by the Australian Health Practitioner Regulation Agency (AHPRA) as the level of English proficiency required for professional registration in a variety of healthcare professions.
